(3) Where a Court has adjourned hearing of the suit ex parte, and the defendant, at or before such hearing, appears and assigns good cause for his previous non-appearance, he may, on such terms as the Court thinks fit, be heard in answer to the suit as if he had appeared on the day fixed for his appearance.

(4) Where the defendant appears and the plaintiff does not appear when the suit is called on for hearing, the Court shall dismiss the suit, unless the defendant admits the claim or part thereof, in which case the Court shall pass a decree against the defendant upon such admission, and, where part only of the claim has been admitted, shall dismiss the suit so far as it relates to the remainder.

¹ The words “not exceeding twenty-one days” were inserted by section 6 of the Family Courts (Amendment) Act, 1989 (Act No. XXX of 1989).

Provided that the Court may set the dismissal of a suit under sub-section (4) aside on such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit:

Provided further that no order setting the dismissal of a suit under sub-section (4) aside shall be made unless notice of the application has been served on the defendant.

(6) Where a decree is passed ex parte against a defendant, he may, within thirty days of the passing of the decree, apply to the Court by which the decree was passed for an order to set it aside, and if he satisfies the Court that there was sufficient cause for his non-appearance when the suit was called on for hearing, the Court shall make an order setting aside the decree as against him on such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit, and shall appoint a day for proceeding with the suit:

Provided that where the decree is of such a nature that it cannot be set aside as against such defendant only, it may be set aside against all or any of the other defendants also:

Provided further that no order shall be made under this sub-section unless notice of the application has been served on the plaintiff.

(7) The provisions of section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1908 (IX of 1908), shall apply to an application under sub-section (6).

¹ The brackets and words “(if any) and the summary of evidence” were omitted by section 7 of the Family Courts (Amendment) Act, 1989 (Act No. XXX of 1989).

(3) At the pre-trial hearing, the Court shall ascertain the points at issue between the parties and attempt to effect a compromise or reconciliation between the parties, if this be possible.

(4) If no compromise or reconciliation is possible, the Court shall frame the issues in the suit and fix a date ¹[ordinarily of not more that thirty days] for recording evidence.

Trial in camera

11. (1) A Family Court may, if it so deems fit, hold the whole or any part of the proceedings under this Ordinance in camera.

(2) Where both the parties to the suit request the Court to hold the proceedings in camera, the Court shall do so.

Recording of evidence

12. (1) On the date fixed for recording of the evidence, the Family Court shall examine the witnesses produced by the parties in such order as it deems fit.

(2) The Court shall not issue any summons for the appearance of a witness for any party, unless, within three days of the framing of issues, the party intimates the Court that it desires the witness to be summoned through the Court and the Court is satisfied that it is not possible or practicable for the party to produce the witness.

(3) The witnesses shall give evidence in their own words and may be cross-examined and re-examined.

(4) The Court may forbid any question which it regards as indecent, scandalous or frivolous or which appears to it to be intended to insult or annoy or be needlessly offensive in form.

(5) The Court may, if it so deems fit, put any question to any witness for the purpose of elucidation of any point which it considers material in the case.

(6) The Court may permit the evidence of any witness to be given by means of affidavit:

¹ The words “ordinarily of not more that thirty days” were inserted by section 7 of the Family Courts (Amendment) Act, 1989 (Act No. XXX of 1989).

(7) The evidence of each witness shall be taken down in writing, in the language of the Court, by the presiding Judge of the Court and shall be signed by such Judge.

(8) Where the evidence of a witness is given in any language other than the language of the Court, the presiding Judge may take it down in that language, if possible, and an authenticated translation of such evidence in the language of the Court shall form a part of record.

(9) When the evidence of a witness is taken down, it shall be read over to him and shall, if necessary, be corrected.

(10) If the witness does not accept the correctness of any part of the evidence, the presiding Judge may, instead of correcting the evidence, make a memorandum of the objection made by the witness, and shall add such remarks as he thinks necessary.

(11) If the evidence is taken down in a language different from that in which it has been given and the witness does not understand that language, the evidence shall be interpreted to him in the language in which it was given or in a language which he understands.

13. (1) After the close of evidence of all parties, the Family Court shall make another effort to effect a compromise or reconciliation between the parties.

Conclusion of trial

(2) If such compromise or reconciliation is not possible, the Court shall pronounce judgment and, on such judgment ¹[either at once or on some future day not beyond seven days of which due notice shall be given to the parties or their agents or advocates], a decree shall follow.

¹ The words "either at once or on some future day not beyond seven days of which due notice shall be given to the parties or their agents or advocates" were inserted by section 8 of the Family Courts (Amendment) Act, 1989 (Act No. XXX of 1989).
